FIVE THOUSAND HEAR COOPER

Exhibited Watch Valued at $3,500
Given Him By Grateful Father.

Lexington, Ky., Mar. 25.
It is estimated that five thousand Lexington people heard L. T. Cooper, the man who created such widespread attention in the East, one evening recently. Cooper explained to the vast crowd his theories on health and hygiene, accompanied by a unique demonstration of his celebrated preparation Tanlac, which he is personally introducing in the larger American cities.

In connection with his visit to Kentucky, Cooper said: "I shall remain in Kentucky for only a short time. However, I shall give to the people of this section of the country the same benefits of my study and my medicine that I have given the multitudes of New York, where I have been busy during the past year helping the hundreds of thousands of suffering humans in that great city."

"While here I will prove to every one how easy it is to guard against the inroads of ill-health by guarding your health as carefully as you do some other features of your daily lives."

"Catarrhal affections of the head, nose, throat and stomach, as well as the kidneys, produce a stuffed-up condition of the vital organs, and nine times out of ten this trouble is responsible for most of the ill-health of we present day Americans. Faulty methods of living are back of this all, but it is never too late to correct our faults."

"Tanlac, the wonderful medicine that I am introducing to correct this condition, I believe to be the best thing of the kind on the American market today. This fact has been proven throughout the great Eastern cities, as well as right here in Lexington, where hundreds of people are already realizing the surprising results from its use."

"They all testify that Tanlac has a peculiarly grateful effect, seems to go right to the desired spot, warms up the entire system, and gives great strength and development where it is most needed—correcting all of the ills and weaknesses which come from years of misuse of the vital and digestive organs."

Cooper then exhibited a handsomely engraved gold watch, studded with forty-seven perfectly cut diamonds, which is valued at $3,500, that was given to him as a token of appreciation by a prominent jeweler, whose son was relieved by Tanlac.

The celebrated Tanlac is sold exclusively in Marion, Ky., by Jas. H. Orme.—Advertisement.

THE TELEPHONE A SUCCESS.

Miss Mayme Bryant's Paper on "The Telephone" Read
At Paducah.

The following was read at Operator's meeting at Paducah. "The vastness of the Telephone System is ever a source of wonder to me. We of modern times have become so used to great inventions that we accept the most astounding feats almost with indifference, thinking more of the convenience it means to us, than of the years of toil and thought it has taken to bring about these wonderful inventions."

Should we stop to consider the labor it has taken to perfect one call over the wires, we would prize even more than we do, this very convenient instrument we call "The Telephone."

In business, sickness or pleasure it is ever ready to serve us uncomplainingly. The business man cannot afford to be without one from a financial standpoint; the people not being in touch with him, would naturally forget him. No home is complete without one, for it is like adding a cheery and dependable member to your household.

As the cost is so light and the returns so great: they are as they should be, fast becoming as essential in the American home as the Sewing Machine.

In such a business as Telephony there can be no failure but "here's hoping" more success and greater prosperity to our friend "The Telephone."—Mayme Bryant.

Dr. R. L. Moore Announces For Republican Nomination For State Treasurer.

In this issue will be found the announcement of Hon. R. L. Moore of Marion, as a candidate for Treasurer of Kentucky, subject to the primary the first Saturday in August. Mr. Moore is a law partner of former Senator W. J. Deboe, has been president of a bank for ten years, and is a gentleman of high order. We call special attention to what the Lexington Leader says of him, editorially copied in this issue of the Republican.—Glasgow Republican.

Dr. R. L. Moore of Marion, Ky.—Ollie James' home town—who, was in the city last week, is the first to shy his castor into the ring for the Republican nomination for state treasurer, his formal announcement having been given to the press yesterday. If nominated and elected he will become a member of the State Board of Valuation and Assessment in conjunction with the state auditor and secretary of state, which shows that he will have other important duties besides handling the state's finances.

Dr. Moore, who is 54 years old, is one of the leading Republicans of western Kentucky. He was born and reared on a farm, educated in his home schools and graduated from the Universities of Louisville and Chicago. He began the practice of medicine in 1882 and continued this about fifteen years. In 1902 he began the practice of law and is one of the leading lawyers at the Marion bar. He served as president of the Marion bank for ten years, and for ten years was vice president of the Farmers Bank at that place. He is also an elder in the Presbyterian church. Dr. Moore's experience as a banker eminently fits him for the office of treasurer, and being a good business man, will be a valuable addition to the Board of Valuation and Assessment, something that is badly needed at this time. The state of Kentucky, and those having business with the Board of Valuation and Assessment have a right to demand the nomination and election of good men to fill those offices, especially when it

Money And Stamps To Amount
Of $300. Secured By The Thieves.

Smithland, Ky., March 23.—More than $300 in stamps and money was secured by cracksmen who early this morning blew open the safe of the Smithland postoffice. The thieves made a clear "get away" leaving no clue behind them. A pick and monkey wrench used in breaking into the postoffice building were stolen from the Brandstetter store next door.

The theory of officials here is that the safe blowers came here from Paducah, making the trip by river in a gasoline launch. Postoffice inspector Fred Ashton arrived from Paducah this morning to investigate the case.

Mrs. Arthur Watkins was hostess Thursday afternoon to the Norwood Five Hundred Club, complimenting Mrs. V. Y. Moore of Kentucky. Newman, Mrs. B. C. Rickman, Mrs. J. W. Morrow, Mrs. C. H. Johns, Mrs. J. N. Neal, Mrs. J. L. Leslie, Mrs. Woodruff, Mrs. A. Boyer, Mrs. O. H. Cowden, Mrs. J. M. Moss, Mrs. W. L. Caldwell, Mrs. T. G. is taken into consideration that all of the franchises of the state come under the jurisdiction of that board. Dr. Moore, who is a good speaker, will be able to take care of himself on the stump and enter the race with a strong following. — Lexington Leader of March 17th 1915.—Advertisement

H. V. MCCHESNEY FOR GOVERNOR

Following Is A Strong Editorial
From The Gifted Pen
Of John L. Smith.

Harry V. McChesney, former citizen of this city announced for Governor last Saturday. His public career began here in 1893 when he was elected Superintendent of county schools, to which office he was elected second time.

McChesney favors state-wide prohibition and wants the people to have an opportunity to vote on a constitutional amendment that shall prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicants in Kentucky.

This declaration has created commotion among the liquor forces whose operations have been driven from over one hundred counties of this state. In reality this question need not alarm anyone for the people have a right to vote on this question and decide it for themselves. Why should any candidate for a state office refuse the submission of question to the voters? Are we not a sovereign people? Livingston county decided that prohibition is a good thing, so, if it is good for Livingston county, is it not good for every other county in the state? Let the whole people decide.

If the sale of whiskey and beer is good for McCracken county, it looks like it would be good for Livingston. The plain fact is, it is not good for any community. But the question now hinges on whether or not, the people will be given an opportunity to register their votes for or against this destructive evil. The battle is on and it will be fought out this year. It just as well be settled now as any other time, and it will be settled right.

We need not mention the evils of intemperance. The trail of misery that has followed in its wake, the blighted lives and ruined homes testify to its deplorable effects upon depraved humanity.

Harry McChesney has a right to favor state-wide prohibition and he has the courage to so declare. His life has been free from liquor contaminations. He is a sober man, an honest man and he ranks with Kentucky's foremost leaders in progressive politics and statesmanship. He never assumed a position he could not successfully defend before the people. In the declarations set out in his announcement, he touches a chord in the breast of thousands of good people all over Kentucky, people whose rights have been trampled upon by the worst evil and enemy to humanity ever allowed to run rough-shod over a free democracy. The people themselves will have now an opportunity to record their votes for a man who offers them a right they have been denied, the right to vote on state-wide prohibition.

The issue will be closely drawn and all the ground covered by the waging warriors, but the people are supreme and by them will this great question be settled at the ballot box.

A McChesney club was organized at the Court House last Saturday night.—Livingston Banner. Adv.

F. G. Cox,

DISCUSSION OF FARM FLOCK.

Another Interesting Discussion Of "The Farm Flock" By One Who Knows.

In this article I want to again call attention to the house, housing and breed you select.

Build good comfortable quarters then get good foundation stock or eggs from a laying strain of the kind you like best, then look well to the little things; for this counts for more in the chicken business than in any thing we've ever tried.

Grit, oyster shells, charcoal and fresh water should be kept before the fowls all the time. Plan this Spring and summer to raise a variety of grain to feed this fall. Kafir corn and millet, cut when good ripe are good. Sunflower seed should be fed to the hens while in the molt.

Do not feed grain on bare ground but rather in deep litter. Never allow your fowls to roost in trees or drafty places at the barn. If they persist in roosting at the barn they should be protected from the cold winds by planks, shock fodder, or baled straw. Nor must they be allowed to run out in cold mud or snow, keep them housed.

Build any kind of house you like, so it is warm and snug on North, East and West sides, on South side make plenty of openings. Plan to get all the sunshine possible in these openings by letting them extend to the floor and up to near the top. Nail one inch mesh poultry netting over windows. Make a light door frame and cover with same netting to hang inside of the wooden doors.

Windows should be provided with curtains, (grass sacks ripped open will do fine for these) Place the dropping board directly under the roost poles, let it extend to back wall, supported by cleat, and out 1-2 inches past roost poles.

This should be movable in order to be kept clean.

Now friends I have made this as plain as I can. Evidently from the questions I have asked, some of the readers of my former article did not understand this part of it. Dirt floors are alright if kept perfectly dry, if not use plank floors by all means.

Do not count too high on stock or eggs shipped from a distance. Our experience is we do just as well perhaps better, by buying from responsible parties near home. Frequently eggs are kept on hands 3 or 4 weeks, perhaps longer, then shipped to the farmers for hatching purposes, the result is a poor hatch and weaklings. Eggs for hatching purposes should be fresh, not over two weeks old.

Eggs should be gathered once each day, in frosty weather oftener, and each egg we get is marked with the day, month and kind very often the No. of pen, and in this way have no trouble in picking out the fresh eggs. None are set or shipped that are over twelve days old.

Now brother farmer, if you find anything in this article that appeals to you put it into practice, if you don't cast it in the waste basket.—J. H. Carter.
